Dear Nate,

One of the major roles of ROX35 in the Asia-Pacific region will be the search for, and the nurture of, new artistic talent.

Our audiences are so large, with millions of newly-literate young people wanting illustrated reading materials, especially Comics, that if we have the right material, Christian publishing houses can print and sell it.

We have had 15 years of great success with our UBS comics series, distributing over 20 million copies of the 13-volume set in over 100 languages.

Our present and always need is for skilled people, writing and drawing for their own culture.

Your search and nurture of graphic talent is a very valid mission program: I believe it should spark the concerned interest of many Churches and Christians in North America.

Blessings in Christ's fellowship,

Anthony J Harrop ✓
