To: Whom It May Concern

I am happy to provide this letter of recommendation for anyone who is considering supporting COMIX35 in any way. I have seen first hand Nate's teaching ministry and I can report that he is an excellent teacher. He is an able and winsome communicator whose ministry has been well received by those who have attended his seminars.

I have worked closely with Nate in several countries as we have added shortened versions of his seminars to our program. I have always considered these mini-seminars a valuable addition to whatever courses or conferences we offer. In fact, there is such a strong sense of need for his ministry that some people travel long distances to come just to a one-day seminar on comics.

His ministry has had a strong, positive impact on Christian publishing in the countries where he has been able to present his program. I hope that he will be able to expand his program to many more countries where Christian publishers are eager for training in the comics format.

Comics are very popular throughout the world and the format is especially valued in countries where the literacy level is low. There is a real need for Nate's ministry. I am not aware of anyone else offering this kind of training in the Developing World. The COMIX35 ministry deserves to be supported; those talented people in the Developing World deserve to get the training they need in order to communicate the Gospel among their people in a way that it can be understood and received.

With warm regards,

Sharon E. Mumper
